Teaching and Learning Policy

1. Introduction

Teaching and Learning should be planned, delivered and followed-up in accordance with the values and principles enshrined in the policy.

2. Aim of the Policy

The aim of this policy is to outline College approach to the expectations for teaching and learning, the means by which it strives to achieve outstanding teaching & learning objectives.

3. General principles underlying the policy

- i. Academic staff share, follow and uphold the values and principles set out in the policy.
- ii. Academic staff receive training, guidance and support, enabling them to contribute to the provisions of outstanding teaching and learning at the College.
- iii. Students are encouraged to behave in a manner that facilitates their learning, all round development and progression.

4. Purpose

College is a part of Study Group and as such our policies align to Study Groups' mission:

- i. To prepare students to live in a competitive world and success in global arena
- ii. Enabling them to realize their potentials through a transformational learning experience. Within this broad aim, the purpose of the College is to enable students from all backgrounds and abilities to reach their maximum potential, academically and as individuals, achieving the best possible academic results, progressing to the best possible universities and, as a result, building a successful and rewarding career in their field of choice.

5. The College context

- i. College students are aged between 17 years and upwards, the majority of whom choose to come to continue their academic pursuits and progress to leading universities, or in other academic excellence hubs. Our academic policies recognize the diversity of our student community and provide an effective operating framework to support and stretch our students.

ii. Programs offered include academic programs such as Computer Skills, Foundation course at I year Undergraduate and Pre-Masters preparation as well as communicative and professional skills for subsequent academic programs.

iii. College academic policies, such as this policy, should be read in conjunction with other policies of the college.

6. Teaching & learning principles

The approach of the College towards teaching & learning is underpinned by the following key principles:

i. Teaching & learning should be a professional, positive, engaging and rewarding partnership between teacher and the taught.

ii. Teachers should ensure that their students fully understand the learning objectives of their studies at every stage. In turn, students should reflect on their own progress towards achieving their goals and share responsibilities for their learning outcome.

iii. Teachers should develop the skills, confidence and motivation in students to transform into successful independent learners in their academic pursuits.

iv. The teachers should support the acquisition of English language skills and thereby open cultural, social boundaries of the students.

v. Teachers should approach teaching & learning with a cosmopolitan outlook, actively seek new ways to motivate and engage students and utilize the technology and other resources available to enhance the teaching & learning experience.

vi. Each and every student should be provided with the equal opportunities, resources and support they need to fulfill their academic pursuits.

vii. Teachers should be provided with the opportunities, resources, training and support they need to fulfill their teaching abilities

7. The approach to teaching & learning

The College defines its approach to teaching & learning based on its vision, context and guiding principles, as follows:

7.1 Admissions

i. Admission criteria has been advanced to ensure that students have suitable academic foundations and communicative and professional skills to progress in their chosen academic programme

ii. Student admissions are monitored by the Admission Committee who provides information, advice and guidance in order to help students to choose the right program and prepare for their studies.

7.2 Planning and Tailoring

- i. Programs that enable progression into higher education have been specially cater to the needs of the students.
- ii. Curriculum policies are in place for every programme and are reviewed and updated from time to time to reflect the needs and goals of the students, akin to the global academic standards.
- iii. Content and delivery is planned from a programme at every stage through innovative pedagogical strategies to meet defined learning objectives.
- iv. Programme-level planning takes the form of a set of periodically reviewed and updated curriculum and expertise of teaching faculty and the outcome of self-evaluation process.
- v. Teachers are informed regarding the educational background and culture, language ability, age-range and gender-mix of the students in the classes they teach, through student and class profile reports
- vi. Teachers evaluate the academic ability of their students at the beginning of their programme of study, using baseline academic data and the outcomes of cognitive ability tests.
- vii. Teachers put their experience and understanding of different learning abilities of the students to plan lessons that engage and actively involve their students.

7.3 Monitoring attendance and progress

- i. Using individual student profile reports and the results of cognitive abilities and/or English language tests as a means to determine academic targets, proctor meet with students regularly to monitor their progress during academic sessions.
- ii. Teachers record attendance, homework, test and assessment marks in a systematic form for each student on an on-going basis, enabling proctors to access all relevant information for student monitoring purposes.
- iii. Proctors identify and address areas of concern, promote areas of interest and ability, and motivate students to reach their academic pursuits.

7.4 Delivery

- i. Teachers introduce and employ a variety of teaching and learning methods and resources, both inside and outside the classroom, to enthuse, motivate, challenge and involve students, including:
 - a. Experiential learning

- b. Intelligent Questioning Techniques
- c. Practical activities
- d. Interactive seminar- and tutorial-style sessions
- e. Use of other interactive methods/resources
- f. Teacher-led lessons
- g. Field trips and visits
- h. Invited speakers/experts

- ii. Lesson content is reinforced through assignments, key tests and provision of learning resources available to students outside of lesson time
- iii. Teachers embed principles that support students' spiritual, moral, social and cultural (SMSC) development within their approach to teaching and learning
- iv. In addition to teaching, every lesson and assignments shares a focus to reinforce and strengthen English language, numeracy, independent learning, communication and reasoning skills.

7.5 Providing feedback

- i. Students receive regular and timely feedback on progress through dedicated tutorial sessions, and on assessments in accordance with College assessment policies and procedures
- ii. Feedback addresses progress regarding the acquisition of subject knowledge as well as the development of key skills relevant to the learning process
- iii. Students are given academic reports for each semester, which, in addition to showing assessment marks, include feedback from their teacher with regard to their perceived strengths and weaknesses and how they can improve and maximize their chances of progression.
- iv. Parents/guardians also receive the academic reports, facilitating their involvement in their children's learning.

7.6 Advice and support

- i. Proctors and teachers share and discuss student feedback and collaborate to ensure the effective, relevant and timely learning support for the needy students
- ii. Students are given appropriate advice regarding their progression plans in response to the progress they are making on their current programme and their final outcomes, in accordance with Student Progression Policy and Procedures

iii. Teachers support each student's spiritual, moral, social, cultural, intellectual and physical development, in conjunction with their welfare.

8. Supporting and developing teaching and learning provision

8.1 Teacher support and development

i. The academic staff participates in a Continuing Professional Development (CPD) programs, in accordance with UGC/Government Policy and Procedures. Training and development provision is based on college-wide and individual/group needs.

Individual needs are identified and recorded as part of lesson observation and peer support work and annual staff appraisal processes.

ii. Academic staff participate in a peer support programme, consisting of a variety of activities conducted in pairs and subsequent discussion of feedback and suggested approaches to development.

iii. Additional support is available individually to staff through regular meetings with their In-charges/ Head of the Institution and annual staff appraisal activities.

8.2 Learner support and development

College supports learner development through ensuring each lesson has a focus on skills as well as subject knowledge acquisition. Dedicated tutorial sessions individualize this further, allowing students with particular development need to be identified and the appropriate support put in place.

i. Access lesson content as and when they need to, giving them more independence and control over their learning

ii. Review learning outcomes and access extension activities, assignments and coursework tasks

8.3 The role of self-evaluation

Self-evaluation plays a key role in making meaningful and beneficial changes to our teaching and learning provision.

Further information on self-evaluation can be summarized below are the main on-going internal self-evaluation activities that work in parallel with college-level evaluation to support and inform teaching and learning practices:

i. Staff appraisal – academic staff participate in an annual cycle of prospective and retrospective appraisal activities which enable staff to identify their own development goals and line managers to become aware of any needs for improvement in performance.

ii. Lesson observation – lessons are observed internally and externally as and when possible. Teaching standards are evaluated and any necessary remedial steps taken

iii. Soliciting student feedback – student opinion and feedback is surveyed at the end of their programme of study

iv. Soliciting staff feedback – staff are encouraged to provide feedback on college policies and practices, and any other area of concern or where it is felt beneficial changes could be made.
